I am using webpack and I have these error while build. [./node_modules/angular-ui-router/release/angular-ui-router.js] ./node_modules/angular-ui-router/release/angular-ui-router.js:2094 [angular] ERROR in /home/ars/workspace/directallocator/node_modules/angular-ui-router/release/angular-ui-router.js (line 2094, file "./node_modules/angular-ui-router/release/angular-ui-router.js") TypeError: Cannot read property 'apply' of undefined at module.exports If I remove ui-router.js. It's working fine. A: Have you set the ui-router build dependency somewhere in your webpack config? angular-ui-router: "^0.3.0" from [Modification of DNA by 2-acylamino-1-methyl-6-nitro-purine (ANMP)]. The reaction of two isomeric derivatives of 2-acetylamino-6-nitro-1-methyl-purine (ANMP) with nucleic acids, the first one being 9-[2- (hydroxymethyl)tetrahydro-2H-pyran-4-yloxy]-5-methyl-3-methylamino-7-anilino-7H-pyrrolo[2,3-d]pyrimidine (ANMPOH) and the second one being 5-[2- (benzyloxymethyl)tetrahydro-2H-pyran-4-yloxy]-9-methylamino-7-anilino-7H-pyrrol 50b96ab0b6

This is worked correctly from within Visual Studio Development Server, and while using IIS 7.5 without using the Web Deploy Package. However, if I try to do the same from a normal production Web Server (not development or local), I get the following error: The given key 'gzipcompress' is not present in the dictionary So I know I am missing some configuration on my production server. I have found that my website.config has this: With the name of "gzipcompress" there. I was wondering what could be the use cases of keys in the web.config, since, I did not see any documentation explaining this. Also is this a recommended practice to place any of the compression settings in the web.config as shown above? Thanks. A: So I know I am missing some configuration on my production server. Not missing anything. Web server has to
